This triangular shawl looks best worked in a heavy, drapey yarn, but feel free to try other weights and fibers. As written, this shawl is quite small, just big enough to go around the neck and tuck into the collar of your coat. For a bigger shawl, repeat rows 2 and 3 of the shawl body until you have 200, 224, or 248 stitches, and increase the number of times you work the lace pattern.
